

Robin Gray is a registered nurse on a mission to teach women the secret epidemic that doctor related breast cancer misdiagnosis is common! She is passionate about her calling, as she is a seven year young breast cancer survivor of a seventeen month breast cancer misdiagnosis from respected and experienced physicians.

Since her misdiagnosis, she has researched why physicians commonly misdiagnose breast cancer and has recently published a book about her research and experiences, called Breast Lump What Lies Beneath. Robin believes the book will help increase the awareness of the common place of breast cancer misdiagnosis in women, especially younger ones, and will guide women in how to obtain the correct breast diagnosis. Additionally, Robin believes her story will encourage those who have already suffered a misdiagnosis or cancer diagnosis. You may visit her new educational website, with life-saving information about breast lumps and emotional healing information for a misdiagnosis or cancer diagnosis.

Background: Robin M.Gray RN graduated with high honors, magna cum laude, from the Towson State University Baccalaureate Nursing Program and has completed postgraduate studies from the Johns Hopkins University. Her early working experience in nursing was in acute care medicine, cardiac telemetry, and intensive care. More recently, she has been a stay-at-home mom and writer. Finally, she has been an active advocate for breast cancer awareness.